Resident
Orchestra

London Symphony Orchestra

Ahead of the public announcement on 30 March, I am delighted to share with you details of the London Symphony Orchestra's concerts from September 2022 to January 2023.

2022/23 marks Sir Simon Rattle's final season as Music Director, before he becomes Conductor Emeritus in 2023. His concerts will bring a return to the big orchestral works that were missing from concert halls during the Covid-19 pandemic: among them Elgar's Second Symphony, Bruckner's Seventh, Sir Simon's own inimitable journey through the music of Stravinsky, and a moving choral programme pairing Szymanowski and Brahms. Following the success of The Cunning Little Vixen in 2019, Sir Simon also continues his journey into Janáček's operas with a concert performance of Katya Kabanova, which will be brought to life by a first-class line-up of singers.

Our Principal Guest Conductors return, with Gianandrea Noseda continuing his cycle of Shostakovich symphonies with two of the composer's biggest creations – the 11th and 13th. In the second half of the season, François-Xavier Roth will join us for an exploration of Beethoven's symphonies alongside more contemporary works.

Many of our programmes include some less familiar repertoire, alongside well-known works, and we hope that you will enjoy experiencing new music and encountering fresh voices. Across two concerts, André J Thomas will explore American musical traditions, from gospel to orchestral; there are premieres by Daniel Kidane, Wynton Marsalis and Louise Drewett, among others; and we are thrilled to welcome saxophonist Jess Gillam for her LSO debut in November as part of the EFG London Jazz Festival, as well as a BBC Radio 3 Lunchtime Concert.

We look forward to welcoming back world-class soloists – from legendary pianists Mitsuko Uchida and Evgeny Kissin to younger stars Janine Jansen and Alice Sara Ott, as well as the LSO's own wonderful principal players Peter Moore, Roman Simovic, Ben Thomson and David Cohen, who appear as soloists in a wide range of concertos.

Alongside the Barbican season, there is a vibrant programme of events at LSO St Luke's, including two new series of BBC Radio 3 Lunchtime Concerts featuring a stellar line-up of soloists. And we are delighted to be continuing our extensive programme of streamed concerts through our partnership with Marquee TV.

I hope that you enjoy reading through our plans, and I look forward to being in touch with information about the second half of the season in the coming months.
